Libraries Transform

Transform your ideas about the library: celebrate National Library Week April 10-16

This week, the EWC Library joins libraries in schools, campuses and communities nationwide in celebrating the dynamic changes that are happening in today's libraries. April 10-16 is National Library Week, a time to highlight the changing role of libraries, librarians and library workers.

Libraries today are more about what they do, for and with library users as opposed to what they have for patrons. Libraries aren't only a place of quiet study, but also creative and engaging community centers where people can collaborate using new technologies, learn or just relax. Our library offers access to a variety of print and digital resources, including ProQuest Central, Gale Virtual Reference Library and Films on Demand that can be accessed in person or online.

"Service to the college and community has always been the focus of the library," said Casey Debus. "Libraries level the playing field for people of any age who are seeking the information and access to technologies that will improve their quality of life."

Libraries are many things to many people. They work with students and the public at large to discover and address the needs of their communities. Whether through offering e-books, materials for English-language learners, programs for enrichment or offering a safe haven, libraries and librarians listen to the community they serve, and they respond.

The EWC Library is celebrating National Library Week "Because libraries make a difference in their communities."
