FEATURED

Your library and Canvas

The migration to Canvas has opened new doors for faculty to use the library resources. It is easier to embed videos and other resources right into class modules using the Canvas rich text editor for faculty and students.

LTI (learning tools interoperability) integration is seamless and we have it for Films on Demand and many of the Gale resources.

For assistance in adding these to class modules please ask Aaron Bahmer.

Literacy Tool

Along with embedding database specific resources you can embed short little videos about information literacy. We have access to a tool called ProQuest Research Companion or PQRC for short. It has a host of little videos that range from selecting a topic to evaluating resources. Segments or entire videos can be embedded into class modules. For assistance please ask Casey Debus.

One Book Wyoming

The Wyoming Humanities Council and the Wyoming State Library offer this free program to all libraries.

This year features the book, In Our Time by Ernest Hemingway. It is a collection of short stories.

The library has 13 copies of the book available to check out for a class or book club. In addition to the books we have background on Hemingway and a discussion guide that includes questions. For more information check out Hemingway in Wyoming.
